Anthology Exemplary Program Course Submission Process

The Anthology Exemplary Course Program recognizes faculty and instructional designers who excel in course design. Central to this program is the Exemplary Course Rubric, which outlines the essential elements of outstanding courses in Course Design, Interaction and Collaboration, Assessment, and Learner Support.

Interested applicants are encouraged to submit their courses according to Anthology's guidelines. For more information, please visit the Anthology Exemplary Course Program or iTLC website. Prior to submission, applicants should inform their Associate Dean and the Dean of Innovative Learning.

Subject to budget availability, the college aims to sponsor up to two award recipients annually to attend the Anthology Together Conference and Award Ceremony, in accordance with the College Travel & Expense Policy (G-152). In cases where more than two awards are granted, selection will be randomized, with preference given to first-time award winners and conference attendees.

For further assistance, please reach out to the Dean of Innovative Learning, laura.wassenaar@northwoodtech.edu

Northwood
Technical College

08.14.2024